June 15, 2015

Dear Friends:

It is a pleasure to welcome everyone to EnerKnol's New York Energy Week 2015.

New York has solidified its place as a leader in advancing sustainability and resiliency, and my administration is committed to making all five boroughs better equipped to meet the challenges of the 21st century. With ongoing efforts to reduce our carbon footprint and increase energy efficiency in our communities, we are making valuable investments in our city's future. New York Energy Week will showcase the latest innovations and cutting-edge strategies that are shaping our local energy economy, and with a variety of panel discussions and networking opportunities, it will foster dialogue and unite industry leaders to work towards a more environmentally-friendly city and world. I applaud EnerKnol for bringing people to New York for this exciting week of events as we continue to set a global example for a sustainable urban future.

On behalf of the City of New York, please accept my best wishes for a wonderful and informative week.

Sincerely,
